WHO WE ARE

The Century West Story

Public infrastructure is aging at a rate faster than it is being replaced, and new and stricter regulations are requiring extensive system upgrades. Infrastructure funding is becoming available but not at a level to keep pace with inflation. Engineers are retiring at rates faster than new graduates are entering the market. Coupled with a strong market, there is heightened competition for staffing resources. By building long-term relationships founded on quality and trust, Century West is dedicated to the sustained improvement of our clients' civil infrastructure. This allows our clients to focus their attention on the broad strategies that allow their communities to flourish while encouraging our staff to pursue enriching and satisfying careers.
